Dialogical Self Theory

Hubert Hermans, Radboud Universiteit Nijmegen
Agnieszka Hermans Konopka, International Institute for Dialogical Self

Dialogical Self Theory provides a comprehensive social-scientific theory that incorporates the deep implications of the process of globalisation, and its impact on individual development. Hubert Hermans and Agnieszka Hermans-Konopka present a new and compelling view of the historical changes in perceptions of social realities, and how these changes affected motivation, emotion, leadership and conflict resolution. They detail the improvement of dialogical relationships both within the self and between individuals, groups and cultures, providing evidence from everyday life. The book addresses a variety of problem areas that are analysed in new and unexpected ways: the pros and cons of traditional, modern, and post-modern models of self, the role of emotions, power and dominance, motivation, leadership, and conflict resolution. This book will be of interest to scholars in a wide range of fields including psychology and sociology.

'By far the most accessible and comprehensive statement to date on the Dialogical Self, this volume ranges across a set of problems that bring together the practical and theoretical, the local and global, positioning theory and emotion research, in a timely and important theoretical elaboration. The scope and promise of the authors' work ensures that it will serve as a crucial reference for research and conceptual scholarship on the emerging conceptualization of the Dialogical Self.' Henderikus J. Stam, Editor, Theory and Psychology

'The 'dialogical self' is among the most important and original new theories in the social sciences in the past 20 years...The book should be welcome in all those fields as a major contribution to the understanding of globalization.' Jeffrey Arnett, Clark University

'A highly original and scholarly discussion of the problems of subjectivity in the rapidly evolving global world.' Paul H. Lysaker, Indiana University School of Medicine
